Dear Sirs,

I am writing you today in regards to Jeff Daniels and what kind of person he has been in my eyes. We have known eachother for about three years. He was a member of a club I belong to dealing with the general public.

I have visited his home when his mother was still able to live there and have worked alongside him seating people on small trains. He was never inappropriate with anyone and I do not believe him to be a danger to the community. He was kind, helpful and polite and always willing to work with all the members of the club.

I consider him a friend and a good person and the position he is in now seems so out of character for him I believe that anyone who speaks with Jeff will soon see what a gentle and caring person he is.

Thank you for taking my opinion of him into your consideration.

Sincerely yours,
